4 Engagement

4.1 Order Process

All customers are appointed an Account Director and Project Manager, and where appropriate technical SME support.

This team will work closely with the customer, and any associated / key stakeholders, to define the scope of works, deliverables, timescales, and investment required to deliver the customer's desired outcomes. This in turn will be used to structure and agree a G Cloud order form, in accordance with the Digital Marketplace supplier assessment and contract award process.

4.2 Onboarding

Orchestrato believe that third-party supported project and programme support services only realise their full value if sufficient time is invested in effective Onboarding (& Offboarding).

As a business we pride ourselves in the amount of time and effort we invest in understanding our customer (and any wider stakeholders) needs and priorities, to ensure that we deliver to time, cost and quality.

Once the contract has been awarded, we will invite the customer to a kick-off / mobilisation meeting to establish the high-level priorities, activities, and ways of working to ensure we can achieve the best possible outcome(s).

This will be followed by a detailed project planning session, tailored to meet the customers' requirements, where we would agree the preferred delivery methodology and cadence of reporting.

Finally, your appointed Account Director will agree the governance and oversight necessary to ensure delivery and customer satisfaction.

4.3 Performance, Ongoing Support and Service Constraints

As a professional services provider, Orchestrato will look to agree the levels of support at project inception, the levels of which may be reviewed later at the customer's request and amended via formal change request.

All service performance reviews will be conducted with your appointed Project Manager, and escalated if necessary to your appointed Account Director.

All roles within the service, will be clearly defined at outset and named resources advised formally in writing (including all contact information) to the customer directly following the kick-off meeting.

Standard response times to any issues will be one working day during our normal working hours, which are 8.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Any service constraints will be defined and agreed with the customer at outset.

4.4 Offboarding

On all professional services support services, Orchestrato always look to close down each service with a thorough retrospective and written report. As data back-up, disaster recovery and restoration are not core to this service, any activities in these regards would be planned and agreed on a project by project basis.

Orchestrato's Disaster Recovery & Business Continuity Plan is available on request.
